Although a plot against the Bolivian government existed, the danger of a revolution is now very slight and the Bolivian government is using the plot for pre-election propaganda.*

Comment. All La Paz newspapers of 15 November 1950 carry articles declaring that a revolutionary plot by the Movimiento Nacional Revolucionario (MNR), Falange Socialista Boliviana (FSB), and RADEPA, the secret Bolivian military organization, had been discovered and smashed by police action on 14 November. The names of 24 persons said to be leaders of the plot were published. The same articles stated that Bolivia may be placed under a state of siege this week.
